

How to delete call history from android phone

Continue

Go to the Google Accounts page > People & Sharing > Contacts > Contacts > Menu > Trash.On Samsung, open Phone > Contacts > Menu > Manage Contacts > Import or Export Contacts.You may also use a software recovery tool on desktop. This article will walk you through restoring deleted or lost phone numbers on Android and Samsung devices. In most cases, you can recover the number and contact information if your new phone didn't sync properly or you accidentally deleted an important number. When you first set up Android, you must sign in with a Google account to use Google's apps and services, such as the Play Store. Your contacts are automatically backed up to your Google account, which means any lost or deleted phone numbers may still be available. If you haven't signed in to a Google account on your device at least once before, for whatever reason, this method will not be available to you. To recover deleted phone numbers or contacts, you need to use the Google Account Settings feature. This can be done on both a phone and a computer. On a computer or phone, go to the Google Accounts page. If you aren't already logged into the same Google account you use on your phone, make sure to do so. If you're logged into another account or a work account, you'll need to log out first. Using the menu at the top on mobile, or on the side on desktop, open People & Sharing. Scroll down to the Contacts section and open Contacts by tapping on the entry or clicking the Open button. You can also just go directly to Google Contacts. You will now see a list of all contacts saved to your Google account. Open the side menu and select Trash to recover any numbers you've recently deleted. You should now see a list of any deleted contacts, phone numbers, and email addresses. Each entry will detail where they were deleted from, such as the web or a specific device, as well as the date they were deleted. On mobile, tap the contact you wish to recover. Click if you're on a desktop. A menu will appear with options to Delete forever or Recover the contact. To recover, choose the appropriate option, and the details, including the phone number, will be restored to your contacts list. To check if the phone number has been restored, open the Phone app. Select Contacts and then search for the number or name of the contact you restored. Make sure you're opening the Google version. On some devices, you may have both the Google Phone app and a separate Contacts app. Samsung devices have both, for example. Remember, you can use the Google account management page (from Step 1) to back up your data, customize your privacy settings, manage payment methods or subscriptions, and much more. Although not as common, your phone may have contacts stored on the internal memory or a SIM card. It's possible to retrieve deleted numbers from those storage locations on your Samsung phone by using the import and export functions. Here's how to import contacts: Go to Contacts > Menu > Manage Contacts. Tap Import or export contacts and then import. If you have any contacts stored on your SIM card or your internal memory, you will see those sources in the list. Select the source you want to retrieve and then tap import to confirm. Wait for it to finish. You can use the export function to make a backup of your contacts. Yes, you can retrieve deleted numbers directly from your phone without using a computer, but it limits the methods you can use. You will have more opportunities if you have a computer available. For example, you can use recovery software on your computer to restore numbers, contacts, messages, photos, and much more. FAQ How can you move phone numbers from Android to iPhone? Apple has an official app called Move to iOS that can help you make the switch. It transfers all of your contacts, messages, photos, and more. How can you backup contacts on Android? Open the Settings app and select Google > Settings for Google apps > Google Contacts sync > Also sync device contacts > Automatically back up & sync device contacts. Tap the toggle to turn it on and choose which account you want contacts saved to. All current and future device contacts are automatically saved as Google contacts and sync to your Google account. How can you save contacts on your SIM card to your Google account? Google's automatic backup for contacts doesn't work on phone numbers saved to a SIM card. To back up your SIM contacts, you need to import them. While the SIM card is in your device, go to the Contacts app and select Menu > Settings > Import > SIM Card. Thanks for letting us know! Uninstalling an app on a Pixel 4 XL (Image credit: Joe Maring / Android Central) As the owner of a smartphone, whether it's the best Android phone ever or something more affordable, there are a few basics tasks you should know how to do — such as making phone calls, sending texts, checking your email, etc.The longer you have your phone, the more likely it is that it'll fill up with a variety of apps. There's that game your kid told you to download, the app for the airline you flew once over a year ago, countless social networks you don't really use. You get the idea. Apps are great, but it is possible to have too many of them.Whether your phone is starting to run out of storage or you just don't like how cluttered things are looking, here are two easy ways to uninstall/delete those pesky applications.How to delete apps from the app drawerThe easiest way to uninstall apps from your phone is by heading into the app drawer. The whole process takes just a few seconds, and for getting rid of apps, you know you don't want/need, it's the way to go.Swipe up on your home screen to access your app drawer.Press and hold on the app you want to uninstall.After the pop-up appears, move the app around.Source: Android CentralThis takes you back to your home screen.While still holding on to the app, drag it to the Uninstall option at the top.Let go of the app.Tap OK to uninstall it.Source: Android CentralHow to delete apps from the settingsAlternatively, it's also possible to delete apps from your phone's settings. It's not quite as simple as the above method, but it does give you more information about how much space specific apps are taking up. If you're running out of storage and looking for the biggest offenders, this is a great way to go about cleaning up your phone.Go to the Settings on your phone.Tap Apps & notifications.Tap See all apps below your recently opened apps.Tap on the app you want to delete.Source: Android CentralTap Uninstall.Tap OK.Source: Android CentralJust like that, you now have two handy methods at your disposal for deleting apps on your phone.The first one using the app drawer is the simplest way to go about things. Still, the process involving the settings provides additional information that could be quite useful if you're trying to figure out how to free up storage space on Android. Microsoft If your computer runs Windows 10 and you also have an Android phone, you should probably be using Microsoft's Your Phone app. You can do a lot with it, including making and receiving phone calls on your PC. Let's do it! What You'll Need The Your Phone app is preinstalled on Windows 10 PCs. When connected to an Android device, it can mirror your notifications, sync photos, and send text messages. You can also use the app to place and receive calls from your phone through your PC. To make phone calls using the Your Phone app, your devices must meet the following requirements: Your computer must be running Windows 10 with the May 2019 Update or later, and have Bluetooth enabled. Your Android device must be running Android 7.0 or above. Before attempting to use the phone call feature, you'll have to follow the initial setup process for Your Phone on your PC and Android device. RELATED: Why Android Users Need Windows 10's "Your Phone" App How to Make Android Phone Calls From Windows During the initial setup process of the Your Phone Companion app on your Android device, there are a few permissions you have to grant for the phone call feature. First, tap "Allow" to grant the app permission to make and manage phone calls. You also have to grant it access to your contacts so you can access them on your PC. It's also important that you allow the Android app to run in the background. This ensures a stable connection between your phone and PC. After the setup process is complete on your Android device, you can move to the Windows app to finish setting up the phone call feature. First, navigate to the "Calls" tab, and then click "Get Started." A pop-up containing a Bluetooth PIN will appear on your PC. A pop-up containing the same PIN should also appear on your Android device. Make sure the codes match, and then click "Yes" on your PC and tap "Pair" on your Android device. It's possible to use the feature immediately, but you'll only be able to dial numbers. To show your call log, you have to grant permission on your phone; click "Send Permission" to proceed. A notification will appear on your Android device; tap "Open" to launch the permission dialog. Tap "Allow" in the permission pop-up. If you don't see a pop-up, you can manually grant permission. To do so, go to Settings > Apps & Notifications > See All Apps > Your Phone Companion > Permissions, and then select "Allow" under "Call Logs Access for This App." Your recent calls will now show up in the Your Phone app on Windows 10. To make a call from your PC, you can select a recent call and click the phone icon, search for contacts, or use the dial pad. When you receive a phone call, a notification will appear on your PC, and you can click "Accept" or "Decline." That's all there is to it! You can now make and receive phone calls from your PC—no video call or third-party service required.
